Role of asset classes within portfolios

To better understand the role and function of each asset class within Thrivent Charitable portfolios, please review these insights from investment advisors Cambridge Associates and Veris Wealth Partners.

U.S. equity

(Large, medium and small capitalization equities) U.S. equity is typically the core asset class in a U.S. investor's portfolio. For many endowment funds, equity assets of various sorts comprise most of the portfolio and so the fund's exposure to U.S. economic risk is significant. The major macroeconomic risks are severe economic contraction and sharp, unexpected inflation.

International equity

(Non-U.S. developed equities and emerging markets equities) The inclusion of international equities provides portfolio diversification and enlarges the investment opportunity set. The disadvantages of investing in international equity are higher investment costs and exposure to currency risk.

Diversifiers

Diversifiers provide the portfolio with strong risk-adjusted returns and diversification. Diversifiers differ widely in the kinds of investment strategies they pursue and the level of risk they incur, making generalizations challenging. Thrivent Charitable generally structures hedge fund/diversifiers programs to fill one or both of two roles: (1) to generate a modest return with relatively low risk and little or no correlation to other assets in the portfolio; (2) to generate equity-like returns with less-than-market volatility.

Fixed income/cash

Bonds offer the best protection against economic and equity price deflation. To serve as a reliable hedge, the bonds must be high-quality, non-callable and of intermediate to long duration. The allocation should be sufficient to meet several years' spending needs in the event of a severe equity market decline—unless the investor is confident that other assets in the portfolio would also appreciate during a prolonged economic contraction. In addition, bonds may provide an overall reduction in portfolio volatility, a steady flow of income and high liquidity.

Private investments

The objectives of the private investment allocation are to generate long-term return enhancement over public equity markets (net of all fees/ carried interest) and to provide portfolio diversification and exposure to innovative strategies and niche markets, including growth with impact. Strategies may include venture capital, growth equity, buyouts, credit and sustainable real assets. Private investments are illiquid by nature, and the allocation will grow over time toward the Core Growth Portfolio's long-term target allocation of 10%, as underlying funds call down capital commitments.
